

SHORTAGE IN WHEAT

MINNEAPOLIS TRADERS EXPECT THE CEREAL TO REACH THE DOLLAR MARK.

SUPPLY RUNNING VERY LOW

MILLS MAY BE COMPELLED TO CLOSE DOWN BECAUSE OF LACK OF GRAIN.

Minneapolis, Aug. 14.—Dollar wheat is in sight. Cash handlers in the Minneapolis market state that they expect that price to be offered today. Yesterday No. 1 hard wheat commanded 98 cents. The only trouble was that there was not enough to meet the demands. This is the highest price paid for wheat in Minneapolis since the year 1898, when Leiter, the Chicago man, worked his celebrated "corner." Conditions, however, are very different today. Then everyone was speculating. Today the public seems to take very little interest in the wheat market. It is not an unnatural inflation that has put the price up, but the insufficiency of the supply.

There seems to be practically no spring wheat in the country. Stocks in Minneapolis have been reduced to about 1,600,000 bushels, and the daily receipts are only about half a dozen cars. The present output of the mills uses up about 1,000,000 bushels each week, and at the present rate of consumption it looks as though the supply would be used up before any new wheat can be got in.

Quotations for flour were raised 10 cents a barrel on all grades yesterday, and if the millers are unable to get wheat to enable them to keep on grinding, the price will surely be further advanced. In any event there is little likelihood of the price being reduced at present, as wheat for September delivery is selling between 83 and 84 cents, and the great question the trade has to face now is how to get supplies.

Sufficient to Fill Their Contracts. Under the most favorable circumstances they cannot hope to see much of the new crop in this market until the middle of September, and if the weather does not improve it may be even later before the receipts at this market are at all adequate. Not only is there the delay to be feared, but bad weather would also take a good deal off the quality of the grain.

"I should be very sorry," said a trader on the wheat market, who is also closely connected with one of the large mills, "to see the millers forced to shut down. The flour business has not been very brisk lately. It is true, but it would be a great misfortune if grinding had to be discontinued for ever so short a time for the want of supplies, and that is what the millers have to contemplate as altogether probable. Such a thing has never happened before in the history of the city."

Although flour has not sold as readily as the millers could have desired during the past few months, they have been called upon to supply large quantities of millstuffs—bran, shorts, middlings and "red dog," especially the latter—for which they have got good prices. There have only been twelve mills out of the twenty-two in the city in operation lately, and now the millers find that they cannot keep up with the demand for millstuffs. Yesterday the two largest concerns were said to be out of the market. The Pillsbury-Washburn company declared no quotations could be given for millstuffs. "Why?" said the manager of that department. "Why, because we are oversold." That seems to be the condition of a good many, and the only cure for it is liberal receipts of wheat which can only be realized when the new crop moves freely.

FIRES INTO A CROWD

MANIAC KILLS THREE PERSONS AND WOUNDS OVER A SCORE WITH A GUN.

ANGERED BY BAND CONCERT

POLICEMAN SHOOTS THE MURDERER AFTER AN EXCITING ENCOUNTER.

Winfield, Kan., Aug. 14.—Gilbert Twigg appeared in the principal street last night with a double barreled shotgun and fired both barrels and their contents into a crowd of 3,000 persons who were listening to a band concert. He killed three persons and probably fatally injured three and shot twenty others. Twigg was killed by a policeman.

The dead are: Sterling Rice, Dawson Tillotson, D. Bowman, a carpenter, and Gilbert Twigg.

Twigg is thought to have been crazy. Twigg, who was a soldier in the Philippines, became angered by the music of a band concert and armed himself with a double-barreled shotgun and a revolver and attacked the crowd of 3,000 persons that surrounded the bandstand, killing three men, probably fatally wounding three others and injuring twenty more before he was shot by a policeman.

The band had just finished playing "Hiawatha" when Twigg came up and fired both barrels of his shotgun at the bandstand. R. E. Oliver, a musician, fell with his neck and arms full of shot.

The crowd surged toward Twigg and he, having reloaded his piece, fired two charges into the audience. Men and women fell to the ground in pain, crushing children beneath them.

Those who were not injured scattered in every direction, knocking many others to the ground. This panic allowed Twigg to reload and fire several times at the fleeing women and men.

At last Policeman George Nichols came up, and waiting behind a tree for an opportune moment, confronted Twigg just as the madman had discharged his fowling piece. Twigg dropped the shotgun and drawing his pistol fired at the policeman. The bullet went wild. Before Twigg had time to fire a second bullet Nichols put a bullet through the man's abdomen. Twigg fell, mortally wounded. He endeavored to fire again at Nichols, but he was so helpless that the bullet entered his own chin, passing out through the top of his head.

The frightened fugitives then returned to the band stand and aided the wounded. Twigg was a miller and the men about town referred to him as "Crazy" Twigg, but no one thought him dangerous. He lived in New Mexico for some time before he enlisted as a soldier to fight in the Philippines.

READY FOR THE FIGHT.

Jeffries and Corbett in Fine Condition for Their Battle.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Never in this city has more interest been taken in a pugilistic encounter than is now manifested regarding tonight's contest between James J. Jeffries and James J. Corbett. Betting, however, has been comparatively light at the prevailing odds of 2 to 1 in Jeffries' favor.

Jeffries never looked more fit in his life. His muscles stand out hard and firm over his massive frame and his skin is of that ruddy hue that bespeaks the best type of physical fitness. "Jeff will neither spar nor indulge in road work," said Trainer Delaney. "He is as fast as can be, his wind is perfect, his condition is the finest it was ever in his life, and if Corbett whips him he will be the wonder of the age. Jeff himself figures that he will take the measure of the Olympian in about ten rounds. In his opinion the mill will go fifteen, but not more than that."

Jeffries is heavier than he has ever been at the close of training for any of his engagements, and to the men who handle him this condition seems to be most pleasing.

Jeffries' weight, as indicated by the marker on the scales of the Reliance club Thursday, was 216 pounds and he says that that is his best fighting weight.

When seen at his training quarters in Alameda, Corbett said:

"I would be willing to lose one of my arms if I can defeat Jeffries. I know that Jeffries is a big, rough fellow, but nothing can discourage me. If the betting were a 100 to 1 in favor of Jeffries it would make no difference. I have been doing everything that mortal man could do for the past fifteen months to get into condition for this fight and now that I have about finished my work I am satisfied. I am fit to make the fight of my life tonight and if I don't win I never could or never can win against the man. Win or lose, I will say the same thing after the fight that I say now—I like the job I am about to go up against and I will do my best to come out the victor."

Attendance will probably reach 12,000.

DEFEATS HARRY FORBES.

Frankie Nell of San Francisco Wins Bantamweight Championship.

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Frankie Nell of San Francisco won the bantamweight championship of the world last night when he landed a left swing in the pit of Harry Forbes' stomach in the second round of a scheduled 20-round fight. In the first round of the fight, no effective blows were landed. Forbes, who appeared in splendid condition, was much the showier boxer of the two. But he could not land effectively.

When they came up for the second round, Nell landed a terrific punch on Forbes' stomach. The Eastern champion doubled up like a jackknife and fell over backward. He lay in the corner of the ring gasping for breath, but managed to get up before ten seconds were counted. Nell went at his man like a young tiger and rained a shower of blows on the almost defenseless Forbes. Another punch in the stomach sent Forbes down again and Referee Graney counted him out.

BY ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT.

Colonel Mead Will Be Retired in His Present Grade.

Washington, Aug. 14.—By order of the president, Colonel Robert L. Mead of the United States marine corps will be retired Oct. 3, next, in his present grade. Because of a disrespectful letter which Colonel Mead recently addressed to the navy department, the president took advantage of the law which provides that when an officer in the army or marine corps shall have reached the age of sixty-two years he may be retired on his own request or by order of the president.

Colonel Mead recently requested that he be retired at an advanced grade. The law does not permit officers in the marine corps to be retired with advanced grade, but the president approved Mead's application for retirement. Displeased that his request had not been granted without modification, it is said that Colonel Mead addressed another letter to the department requesting that his application be withdrawn and charging, among other things, that the conditions for his retirement here be ignored.

The acting secretary recommended to the president that Colonel Mead be allowed to withdraw his application for his retirement and that he be relieved in accordance with the law on his sixty-second birthday, which the president approved.

HAIL DESTROYS GRAIN.

Several Thousand Acres in Minnesota Ruined by a Storm.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 14.—A hail storm last evening cleaned out several thousand acres of grain north of East Grand Forks.

The rain of last night, which was general, was followed during the afternoon and evening by local showers, some of them very heavy. The country from here to Minto was visited, and thence from Auburn north to the boundary was well soaked. No hail is reported from any North Dakota point.

The section of Minnesota visited is off the telegraph lines, and it is not known how far the damage may have extended.

WITH TURKISH GOLD

MACEDONIAN LEADER ASSERTS AMERICAN PAPERS HAVE BEEN BOUGHT.

HOPING FOR INTERVENTION

IF THAT SHOULD FAIL, INSURGENTS WILL FIGHT TO THE BITTER END.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 14.—The Macedonian leaders express themselves as greatly disappointed with what they assert is the distinctly hostile attitude of America toward their cause as manifested in the utterances of the press. Dr. Christo Tartaroff, one of the presidents of the central internal Macedonian committee, Thursday told a representative of the Associated Press that his party was convinced that American newspapers had been bought with Turkish gold.

"There seems to be no other explanation of the tone of their articles," said he, "they are not only unsympathetic toward the movement, but decidedly inimical to it. It is impossible that such an attitude could arise from ignorance of the true state of affairs in a country so intelligent as America, and it is also difficult to believe that the impression created by the Miss Stone affair could have so prejudiced the American press."

In regard to the present situation, only real, practical intervention by the powers can stop the fighting of the insurgents. Failing in such intervention, the campaign will be

Prosecuted to the Bitter End.

The band now fighting in the vilayet of Monastir consists of 9,000 to 10,000 men, mostly young and enthusiastic and trained in the use of arms. Their number could be quadrupled were it not that the difficulty of feeding such an army renders its increase inadvisable. The Turkish troops are badly clothed and demoralized. They have repeatedly refused to march against the insurgents, who are well supplied with arms and ammunition, chiefly purchased from Turkish soldiers who sold their guns for cash almost within sight of the barracks of Monastir. By the plentiful employment of money, insurgent bands have been enabled to smuggle any quantity of guns across the frontier and the highest Turkish officials have readily accepted insurgent gold.

Dr. Tartaroff concluded by saying that the committee lived in daily hope that the powers would recognize the justice of their cause and intervene. He said the friends of the cause looked chiefly toward England as the pioneer land of liberty to assist them.

General Tzoucheff, president of the Macedonian committee, and his friend, Colonel Jankoff, both of whom are ex-officers in the Bulgarian army, have been arrested by the Bulgarian police near the Macedonian frontier under the suspicion that they were on their way to join the revolutionists.

WOULD JOIN THEIR BRETHREN.

Macedonians in Greece Desire to Cross Frontier With Arms.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 14.—The Macedonians in Greece petitioned Premier Ralli for permission to cross the frontier with arms in order to join their brethren in Macedonia. M. Ralli refused to grant the permission and counseled them to remain quiet.

Reports received from government agents in various districts in Macedonia are of a disquieting character. They say that the outbreak is steadily progressing and is now extending northward from Monastir and also toward Salonica. Numbers of new adherents are daily joining the insurgent bands. Krushevo is still in the hands of the insurgents, who have also captured Kilsura, the chief town in the Sanjak of Mahlis, vilayet of Monastir. Information from Monastir is to the effect that insurgents have occupied Kilsura and Pilsordere and that the Albanian rebels have been disastrously defeated in the Debrsra region. A Turkish post near Scrovlitch has been robbed.

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Mail prints a dispatch from Belgrade which says that the Turkish troops destroyed the village of Leskovatz and fourteen other places in the district of Uskub, and that the insurgents have burned the villages of Nakoletz and Krali. Inhabited by Albanians, and the Turkish village of Kashani. It is stated that when the insurgents captured the Turkish mail a few days ago they carried off $125,000.

BLOW OPEN THE SAFE.

Robbers Loot the Postoffice at Sherman, S. D.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 14.—The postoffice building at Sherman Thursday morning was entered by cracksmen Thursday morning who blew open the safe and carried off its contents. The robbers escaped and there is no clue. Notes to the value of $1,500, $300 in cash and $150 worth of stamps were carried away.

King Peter Threatens to Abdicate.

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph prints a dispatch from Vienna which says that there is an unconfirmed report that King Peter of Servia has threatened to abdicate, as he is virtually a prisoner in the hands of the military party.

MAY MEET IN OCTOBER.

President to Call Extra Session of Congress Earlier Than Anticipated.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt's conference with the members of the subcommittee of the senate finance committee was not concluded until the small hours of the morning. The whole subject of financial legislation at the approaching session of congress was discussed thoroughly.

Serious consideration was also given to the legislation to be proposed to congress in approval of the Cuban reciprocity treaty ratified by the senate last spring.

The committee, consisting of Senators Aldrich, chairman; Platt (Conn.), Allison and Spooner, did not present even a tentative draft of a currency bill to the president, although some propositions which, subsequently, may be embodied in the measure were reduced to concrete form. No definite conclusions as to the shape of the proposed legislation were reached. The conference related rather to methods of procedure in the work at hand than to the form of the legislation.

One fact of distinct importance was developed at the conference. While an extraordinary session of congress next fall is assured it has not been determined definitely whether it will be called to meet in October or in November. It has been supposed that the extraordinary session would convene on Monday, Nov. 9, but the indications now are that it will be called for an earlier date, perhaps several weeks earlier.

The primary purpose of the extraordinary session will be to enact legislation making operative the Cuban reciprocity treaty, but financial legislation also will be pressed upon the attention of congress soon after it convenes.

DESTRUCTION IS APPALLING.

Jamaicans Appeal to the American People for Aid.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 14.—The destruction in the hurricane-stricken districts is appalling. Thousands of persons, homeless, starving and ill-clad, are hurrying to the towns to obtain shelter and supplies, but as all the churches and public buildings have been demolished the misery is intense. A meeting held at Port Antonio Thursday appealed with the governor's approval to the generosity of the American people. Foodstuffs and lumber are urgently needed and assistance was implored.

The Norwegian steamer Ethelweid encountered the hurricane on her voyage from New York to Jamaica and passed through a terrible experience. Her machinery became deranged and the cylinder cover was blown off. The steamers Alfred Dunois and the Salvador di Giorgio are still ashore.

IMPROVEMENT AT KISHINEFF.

Agitation of the Foreign Press Brings Good Results.

London, Aug. 14.—The Times prints private dispatches from Kishineff, Russia, which ascribe to the agitation of the foreign press a very notable improvement there.

According to these advices not only has the new governor received a Jewish deputation most graciously, but has actually returned a visit to each of the delegates. Such courtesy is very rare where Jews are concerned. There is now reason to hope that genuine measures will be taken against some of the authors of the recent massacre. A notary named Pissarjewski, who was much compromised, has committed suicide and another man named Kharine, has been re-arrested. A further symptom of appeasement is the fact that a proposal to expel all Jews from a local club has been withdrawn at the instance of Vice Governor Ostrogoff.

Card Party Innovations.

At a summer card party given recently in a cottage on Long Island by a Brooklyn woman some pretty innovations were introduced, says the New York Evening Journal. The tables were covered with crepe paper napkins in different colors, pink, yellow, green, blue and violet being included in the list. Candles in color to match the table covers were lighted on each table. After the game had been played and the prizes awarded dainty baskets of grasses woven from material obtained near the house were distributed among the guests. Each basket contained dainty refreshments, supplemented later by ice cream and coffee. The guests then adjourned to the wide piazzas of the house, where dancing concluded the programme for the evening.

Vast Electrical Power System.

The electrical traction system Yankers are building to furnish power for their underground railways in London will be the largest in the world. It will have ten steam turbines of 7,500 horse power. The trains used will be similar to those on the Boston elevated railway, made up of three motor and four trailer cars.

For Governor of Minnesota.

St. Paul, Aug. 14.—Hon. Frank M. Eddy of Glenwood, former congressman from the Seventh district, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of this state. This is the first announcement for the campaign of 1904, which promises to be a lively one.

Went Insane Over the Bible.

BY ORDER OF THE PRESIDENT.

Colonel Mead Will Be Retired in His Present Grade.

Washington, Aug. 14.—By order of the president, Colonel Robert L. Mead of the United States marine corps will be retired Oct. 3, next, in his present grade. Because of a disrespectful letter which Colonel Mead recently addressed to the navy department, the president took advantage of the law which provides that when an officer in the army or marine corps shall have reached the age of sixty-two years he may be retired on his own request or by order of the president.

Colonel Mead recently requested that he be retired at an advanced grade. The law does not permit officers in the marine corps to be retired with advanced grade, but the president approved Mead's application for retirement. Displeased that his request had not been granted without modification, it is said that Colonel Mead addressed another letter to the department requesting that his application be withdrawn and charging, among other things, that the conditions for his retirement here be ignored.

The acting secretary recommended to the president that Colonel Mead be allowed to withdraw his application for his retirement and that he be relieved in accordance with the law on his sixty-second birthday, which the president approved.

HAIL DESTROYS GRAIN.

Several Thousand Acres in Minnesota Ruined by a Storm.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 14.—A hail storm last evening cleaned out several thousand acres of grain north of East Grand Forks.

The rain of last night, which was general, was followed during the afternoon and evening by local showers, some of them very heavy. The country from here to Minto was visited, and thence from Auburn north to the boundary was well soaked. No hail is reported from any North Dakota point.

The section of Minnesota visited is off the telegraph lines, and it is not known how far the damage may have extended.

To Invoke Roosevelt's Good Offices.

Yokohama, Aug. 14.—A special dispatch from Peking to a newspaper here says that Prince Ching has secured Russia's consent to the invoking of President Roosevelt's good offices in connection with the Manchurian difficulty.

WITH TURKISH GOLD

MACEDONIAN LEADER ASSERTS AMERICAN PAPERS HAVE BEEN BOUGHT.

HOPING FOR INTERVENTION

IF THAT SHOULD FAIL, INSURGENTS WILL FIGHT TO THE BITTER END.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 14.—The Macedonian leaders express themselves as greatly disappointed with what they assert is the distinctly hostile attitude of America toward their cause as manifested in the utterances of the press. Dr. Christo Tartaroff, one of the presidents of the central internal Macedonian committee, Thursday told a representative of the Associated Press that his party was convinced that American newspapers had been bought with Turkish gold.

"There seems to be no other explanation of the tone of their articles," said he "they are not only unsympathetic toward the movement, but decidedly inimical to it. It is impossible that such an attitude could arise from ignorance of the true state of affairs in a country so intelligent as America, and it is also difficult to believe that the impression created by the Miss Stone affair could have so prejudiced the American press."

"In regard to the present situation, only real, practical intervention by the powers can stop the fighting of the insurgents. Failing in such intervention, the campaign will be

Prosecuted to the Bitter End.

The band now fighting in the vilayet of Monastir consists of 9,000 to 10,000 men, mostly young and enthusiastic and trained in the use of arms. Their number could be quadrupled were it not that the difficulty of feeding such an army renders its increase inadvisable. The Turkish troops are badly clothed and demoralized. They have repeatedly refused to march against the insurgents, who are well supplied with arms and ammunition, chiefly purchased from Turkish soldiers who sold their guns for cash almost within sight of the barracks of Monastir. By the plentiful employment of money, insurgent bands have been enabled to smuggle any quantity of guns across the frontier and the highest Turkish officials have readily accepted insurgent gold."

Dr. Tartaroff concluded by saying that the committee lived in daily hope that the powers would recognize the justice of their cause and intervene. He said the friends of the cause looked chiefly toward England as the pioneer land of liberty to assist them.

General Tzoucheff, president of the Macedonian committee, and his friend, Colonel Jankoff, both of whom are ex-officers in the Bulgarian army, have been arrested by the Bulgarian police near the Macedonian frontier under the suspicion that they were on their way to join the revolutionists.

WOULD JOIN THEIR BRETHERN.

Macedonians in Greece Desire to Cross Frontier With Arms.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 14.—The Macedonians in Greece petitioned Premier Ralli for permission to cross the frontier with arms in order to join their brethren in Macedonia. M. Ralli refused to grant the permission and counseled them to remain quiet.

Reports received from government agents in various districts in Macedonia are of a disquieting character. They say that the outbreak is steadily progressing and is now extending northward from Monastir and also toward Salonica. Numbers of new adherents are daily joining the insurgent bands. Krushevo is still in the hands of the insurgents, who have also captured Kilastra, the chief town in the Sanjak of Mahlis, vilayet of Monastir.

Information from Monastir is to the effect that insurgents have occupied Kilastra and Pissoderia and that the Albanian rebels have been disastrously defeated in the Debrasko region. A Turkish post near Sorovitch has been robbed.

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Mail prints a dispatch from Belgrade which says that the Turkish troops destroyed the village of Leskovatz and fourteen other places in the district of Uglub, and that the insurgents have burned the villages of Nakoletz and Kranj, inhabited by Albanians, and the Turkish village of Kashani. It is stated that when the insurgents captured the Turkish mail a few days ago they carried off $125,000.

BLOW OPEN THE SAFE.

Robbers Loot the Postoffice at Sherman, S. D.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 14.—The postoffice building at Sherman was entered by cracksmen Thursday morning who blew open the safe and carried off its contents. The robbers escaped and there is no clue. Notes to the value of $1,500, $300 in cash and $150 worth of stamps were carried away.

King Peter Threatens to Abdicate.

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily Telegraph prints a dispatch from Vienna which says that there is an unconfirmed report that King Peter of Serbia has threatened to abdicate, as he is virtually a prisoner in the hands of the military party.

MAY MEET IN OCTOBER.

President to Call Extra Session of Congress Earlier Than Anticipated.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt's conference with the members of the subcommittee of the senate finance committee was not concluded until the small hours of the morning. The whole subject of financial legislation at the approaching session of congress was discussed thoroughly.

Serious consideration was also given to the legislation to be proposed to congress in approval of the Cuban reciprocity treaty ratified by the senate last spring.

The committee, consisting of Senators Aldrich, chairman; Platt (Conn.), Allison and Spooner, did not present even a tentative draft of a currency bill to the president, although some propositions which, subsequently, may be embodied in the measure were reduced to concrete form. No definite conclusions as to the shape of the proposed legislation were reached. The conference related rather to methods of procedure in the work at hand than to the form of the legislation.

One fact of distinct importance was developed at the conference. While an extraordinary session of congress next fall is assured it has not been determined definitely whether it will be called to meet in October or in November. It has been supposed that the extraordinary session would convene on Monday, Nov. 9, but the indications now are that it will be called for an earlier date, perhaps several weeks earlier.

The primary purpose of the extraordinary session will be to enact legislation making operative the Cuban reciprocity treaty, but financial legislation also will be pressed upon the attention of congress soon after it convenes.

DESTRUCTION IS APPALLING.

Jamaicans Appeal to the American People for Aid.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 14.—The destruction in the hurricane-stricken districts is appalling. Thousands of persons, homeless, starving and ill, are hurrying to the towns to obtain shelter and supplies, but as all the churches and public buildings have been demolished the misery is intense. A meeting held at Port Antonio Thursday appealed with the governor's approval to the generosity of the American people. Foodstuffs and lumber are urgently needed and assistance was implored.

The Norwegian steamer Ethelweid encountered the hurricane on her voyage from New York to Jamaica and passed through a terrible experience. Her machinery became deranged and the cylinder cover was blown off. The steamers Alfred Dumaos and the Salvador di Giorgio are still ashore.

IMPROVEMENT AT KISHINEFF.

Agitation of the Foreign Press Brings Good Results.

London, Aug. 14.—The Times prints private dispatches from Kishineff, Russia, which ascribe to the agitation of the foreign press a very notable improvement there.

According to these advices not only has the new governor received a Jewish deputation most graciously, but has actually returned a visit to each of the delegates. Such courtesy is very rare where Jews are concerned. There is now reason to hope that genuine measures will be taken against some of the authors of the recent massacre. A notary named Pissarjewski, who was much compromised, has committed suicide and another man named Kharine, has been rearrested. A further symptom of appeasement is the fact that a proposal to expel all Jews from a local club has been withdrawn at the instance of Vice Governor Ostroff.

Card Party Innovations.

At a summer card party given recently in a cottage on Long Island by a Brooklyn woman some pretty innovations were introduced, says the New York Evening Journal. The tables were covered with crape paper napkins in different colors, pink, yellow, green, blue and violet being included in the list. Candles in color to match the table covers were lighted on each table. After the game had been played and the prizes awarded dainty baskets of grasses woven from material obtained near the house were distributed among the guests. Each basket contained dainty refreshments, supplemented later by ice cream and coffee. The guests then adjourned to the wide piazzas of the house, where dancing concluded the programme for the evening.

Vast Electrical Power System.

The electrical traction system Yankes are building to furnish power for their underground railways in London will be the largest in the world. It will have ten steam turbines of 7,500 horse power. The trains used will be similar to those on the Boston elevated railway, made up of three motor and four trailer cars.

For Governor of Minnesota.

St. Paul, Aug. 14.—Hon. Frank M. Eddy of Glenwood, former congressman from the Seventh district, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of this state. This is the first announcement for the campaign of 1904, which promises to be a lively one.

Went Insane Over the Bible.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 14.—Worrying for months because he could not get forgiveness for an imaginary deed, Harry Weymouth, twenty-one years of age, read the Bible until his mind gave way under the strain, and he was ordered confined in the state insane hospital at Cherokee.

R. G. Vallentyne usually is quick to perceive the voice of a Macadonian cry, but the call over the telephone from Motley yesterday was mistaken by the genial gentleman for Pillager. He and the other Odd Fellows drove to Pillager to attend the Williams funeral but found it was to be held at Motley. Just a little further drive, that's all.

The Duluth engineer having the work in charge has completed plan for a sewage system for Bemidji, to cover the business part of town and a large portion of the residence district. The estimated cost of the system is $30,000. There will be 31,000 feet of piping laid, which will directly benefit 1,500 lots. The work will probably not be started before next spring.

P. H. Knudson has been tipping his hat that he is a bronco buster and a friend in east Brainerd wanted one of the so called animals tamed down a bit. The story is a short one. A buck, a jump, a few kicks, buggy and harness smashed to pieces and the bronco buster sitting on the ground with inclining head watching the bronco disappearing in the distance.

Asked what his initials were at the N. P. depot yesterday W. E. Brockway retorted that they were "W. E." but that they ought to be "W. S." which would mean Willie Smart. It was not five minutes after this that he put his wife on the M. & I. chair car, when she wanted to go to Pillager. All the trains pulled out except the M. & I. and when Mrs. Brockway discovered them pushing this particular car she was in around the yard she commenaed making inquiries and found she was on the wrong train and had missed her trip. When she walked into M. J. Reilly's store a few minutes later one could have bought W. E. Brockway for thirteen cents.

Fred Johns and J. P. Early came in from the south this afternoon. The former left for his home in Duluth on No. 12.

Banker O. H. Havill, of St. Cloud, and George R. Whitney, of the same place, returned from a trip north this afternoon. They went way beyond the line to look over the land. Mr. Havill states that there is some good land there, but they have had frost already and he saw some potato patches that were literally black, the frost having killed the vines. Frost in August sounds a little on the frigid order.

LIGHT ON MOUND BUILDERS

New Evidence of Their Knowledge of Farming and Domestic Arts.

W. C. Mills, curator of the museum of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical society, has made a discovery in Ross county, a few miles south of Chillicothe, which, he believes, will have an important bearing upon the final estimate of the attainments of the mound builders. He and a party of Ohio State university students have unearthed a prehistoric village on an elevation near the Scioto river whose inhabitants left signs that they knew something of agriculture and the domestic arts, says the Columbus (O.) correspondent of the New York Post.

Thus far forty-nine pits on the site have been excavated. In several of them, among heaps of parched corn and beans, evidence was found that the mound builders did not subsist entirely on fish and game, as has been thought hitherto by many archaeologists. The pits contain also rude weaving instruments, needles, bobbins and other household implements, some made of flint, others of bone. Broken pottery of various shapes was found, as also necklaces of shells, polished beaver teeth, carved bones of curious shapes, tobacco pipes, stone axes, awls and beads.

Not all the pits were used as store-houses or dwelling places. In one of them were found several skeletons. One narrow grave was occupied by two aged lovers clasped in each other's arms. Their extreme age is shown by the fact that, while the bones are remarkably well preserved, the woman's skull contains only one tooth, very much worn, while the man's has none at all.

Another pit bears traces of a feast to which Mr. Mills believes 1,500 people sat down. A hole in the center of the apartment four feet in diameter and ten feet deep tells the story of how the mound builders cooked their food. The clay soil, from the bottom to the top of the excavation, was burned to a deep red, while 450 stones heaped up in the center of the hole show signs of having once been fired to a red heat. Mussels from the river supplied the first course, and more than 20,000 shells show either that the diners were very numerous or that their appetites were exceptionally keen. Bits of deer bone, neatly chopped to five inch lengths, prove to Mr. Mills that the venison was well stewed before it was eaten. Some of the corn, beans and hickory nuts provided for the feast remain still in the cave, and, quite after the manner of modern dining room decorations, the place was adorned with the heads of bears, two of which are intact today.

PROGRESS IN CHINA.

Western Amusements in the Summer Palace at Peking.

Commenting on the recent dancing in the palace at Peking, the China Times says: "It was a matter of great surprise to many to learn that the grand old dowager had taken a real interest in western music and that princesses were dancing in a way calculated to upset the traditions of the Summer palace. It appears that reform in China can be best introduced through western pleasures and amusements. Tientsin has selected the humble medium of the merry go round with horse power music, while Peking in its pride of place called upon the services of Sir Robert Hart's famous band. Amusements are far more insidious than study, and it is the first aim of every teacher to interest first and instruct afterward.

"China is in the kindergarten stage of western learning. She must be amused to be taught. Don't hurry her; don't cram her. Let her learn the alphabet of reform in a pleasant manner. Instead of sending to China strong bands of foreign military, send strong military bands, with Dan Godfrey to lead them. The high appreciation of Sir Robert's band by the imperial party opens up a very alarming prospect to officialdom. For the empress to express such delight in western music is equivalent to ordering the officials in the capital to encourage such music. There can be no other prospect than every Peking official blowing his own trumpet with variations. A wave of music will pass over Peking, and every household will have an additional lyre. There is one great danger to be guarded against. They must not learn the extortionate powers of the waltz."

CARNEGIE AND FRICK.

Work Done by the Latter For the Steel Company.

VICTOR OF HOMESTEAD STRIKE.

James Howard Bridge, in Describing the Carnegie Steel Company's History, Draws a Strong Contrast Between the Owner of Skibo Castle and His Former Business Associate.

"No great business has yet been built upon the beatitudes, and it is not all cynicism that condenses a negative dialogue into a positive exhortation to be successful—somehow."

The above is from the introduction prepared for the "History of the Carnegie Steel Company" by its author, James Howard Bridge, who was born in England forty-five years ago, says the New York Herald.

He was for a time private secretary to Herbert Spencer and has written much on subjects connected with the study of political economy. Mr. Bridge assisted Andrew Carnegie materially in the preparation of his book "Triumph of Democracy."

The work, in most elaborate style, has recently been brought out for private circulation by the Aldine Book company. If it is a labor of love it is made certain that Mr. Andrew Carnegie is not the sole object of Mr. Bridge's affections.

Throughout some 370 octavo pages the theme runs along without variation—"be successful, somehow"—and in its application to Mr. Carnegie some very unpleasant material is presented. The action of the ironmaster toward his associates, particularly Mr. H. C. Frick, through whom, as the work says, "success was achieved, somehow," discloses some curious ideas of business morality.

Wall street has experienced a veritable sensation in the appearance of Mr. Bridge's book. Copies of it have appeared on the tables of banks and bankers' offices from quarters unknown. It is a book which must have cost thousands of dollars to prepare, full levant morocco bound, made of beautiful Japanese paper, copiously illustrated with photogravure plates, all in the highest style of the printer's art. The first edition is said to have been limited to fifty copies at $100 each, and a second edition de luxe to 450 copies at a cost of about $25.

To find such rare and beautiful books in some cases donations has surprised even Wall street bankers. Surprise has given way to amazement as in turning its pages the readers have found all sorts of sensations staring them in the face. The innermost secrets of the Carnegie Steel company stand revealed to the light of day.

In the history of the Carnegie Steel company one may read Mr. Schwab's statement that steel rails could be produced at $12 a ton at a time they were costing the consumer $28. One may read of a division of profits running as high as 88 per cent to the members of the Carnegie association.

Mr. Bridge, the author of the book, was once private secretary to Mr. Carnegie. That he writes with a strong bias appears evident from the very introduction. In telling of his search for material he says, "I found Andrew Carnegie's own narrative the least trustworthy of all." He follows this up with a dedication: "To recall their forgotten services this history of a great business is dedicated—to the memory of the men who founded it, saved it from early disaster and won its first successes."

Mr. Andrew Carnegie's name is not included in this list.

Mr. Bridge's history of the Carnegie company dates back to 1858, when Andrew Klonan started a small forge at Girty's run, in Millvale, Duquesne borough, Allegheny. He traces the company step by step down to the time when it passed to the United States Steel corporation.

Great credit is given by the author to Mr. Frick for his work in the Carnegie company. As to the growth of the company's earnings in later years and until that preceding its absorption, the following is the result:

Net profits of the Carnegie associations, Carnegie Bros. & Co., limited (to 1892), Carnegie, Phipps & Co., limited (to 1892), and the Carnegie Steel company, limited (from July, 1892):

1893.....	$3,540,000	1895.....	$5,790,000
1896.....	5,350,000	1896.....	6,000,000
1897.....	4,300,000	1897.....	7,000,000
1898.....	4,000,000	1898.....	11,500,000
1899.....	3,000,000	1899.....	21,000,000
1894.....	4,000,000

Plus $4,500,000 reinvested.

The work done by Mr. Frick during the Homestead strike forms an important part of the work. The author draws a strong contrast between Mr. Frick, whom he describes as fighting the battle for the company beset by assassins, harassed by political influences and the like, while Mr. Carnegie is fishing for salmon or playing golf at Skibo castle. As a result of the strike, the credit of winning which is given to Mr. Frick, the work says:

It is believed by the Carnegie officials, and with some show of reason, that this magnificent record was to a great extent made possible by the company's victory at Homestead. From that time on the firm profited by the heavy investments it had made in labor saving machinery, and costs got so low that one year when the Carnegies made over $1,000,000 their chief competitor, the Illinois Steel company, had upward of $1,000,000 loss. The following year the Carnegies made over $5,000,000, while the Chicago company made only $300,000. By 1892 the cost of steel rails on cars at the Braddock mill was only $12 a gross ton.

Every detail of the bitter quarrel between Mr. Carnegie on the one hand and Mr. Henry Phipps and Mr. H. C. Frick on the other is spread out for public view backed by documentary evidence, copies of confidential documents, trade secrets, cost of production and the like.

FIGHT IN A BOX CAR.

Masked Men Hold Up Six Laborers and Two of the Latter Are Killed.

Glendive, Mont., Aug. 13.—Three masked men attempted to hold up in a Northern Pacific freight car early Wednesday six laborers en route to the wheat fields of the Dakotas. The laborers resisted the demands of the robbers and a general fight ensued, resulting in the killing of Thomas McGowan of Philadelphia, who was shot through the right lung, and an unknown man whose body was found in the car later in the day. W. R. Men-shing of Perham, Minn., was shot through the neck and perhaps will die. The robbers escaped uninjured, but two of them were arrested last night.

Rev. E. W. Ellis, of Hawley, passed through the city this afternoon en route home from the Twin cities.

Bert Finn returned from Fargo this afternoon where he visited for a short time with friends and relatives.

Miss Schmeltz, of Staples, passed through the city this afternoon en route to the Twin cities on a visit.

J. H. Noble and daughter, Miss Beatrice, left this afternoon for Staples where they will visit for a short time.

Miss Evelyn Moffat, who has been visiting in the city for a short time, returned to her home in St. Paul this afternoon.

Miss Eda Graff, of Luverne, arrived in the city this afternoon and will be the guest of Mrs. A. M. Johnson and Mrs. L. A. LaJoie for a time.

The meeting nights of the Sons of Veterans have been changed from the second and fourth Thursdays in the month to the first and third.

Miss Mayme Carney and Miss Marie Canan left yesterday afternoon for Duluth and they will make a trip down the lakes before they return home.

D. D. Schroeder, of Waterloo, returned from a trip north this morning. He was accompanied by Rev. W. S. Bell and Dr. F. C. Sage, of Waterloo. They left for the south this afternoon.

There will be a meeting tonight of the Brainerd Public Library board in the library rooms over the N. P. depot. Attorney L. E. Lum returned to his home in Duluth this afternoon.

Mrs. R. J. Hartley and baby arrives home this afternoon from an extended visit at her old home at Benton Harbor, Mich. She was accompanied by Mrs. Sherwood, her mother, who will visit here for some time.

It is reported that L. A. LaJoie will leave for Butte soon where it is said he will take the assistant management of the Butte base ball team, which has been made such a winner by Former Manager Wilnot, of the Minneapolis team.

R. G. Vallentyne usually is quick to perceive the voice of a Macadonian cry, but the call over the telephone from Motley yesterday was mistaken by the genial gentleman for Pillager. He and the other Odd Fellows drove to Pillager to attend the Williams funeral but found it was to be held at Motley. Just a little further drive, that's all.

The Duluth engineer having the work in charge has completed plan for a sewage system for Bemidji, to cover the business part of town and a large portion of the residence district. The estimated cost of the system is $30,000. There will be 31,000 feet of piping laid, which will directly benefit 1,500 lots. The work will probably not be started before next spring.

P. H. Knudson has been tipping his hat that he is a bronco buster and a friend in east Brainerd wanted one of the so called animals tamed down a bit. The story is a short one. A buck, a jump, a few kicks, buggy and harness smashed to pieces and the bronco buster sitting on the ground with inclining head watching the bronco disappearing in the distance.

Asked what his initials were at the N. P. depot yesterday W. E. Brockway retorted that they were "W. E." but that they ought to be "W. S." which would mean Willie Smart. It was not five minutes after this that he put his wife on the M. & I. chair car, when she wanted to go to Pillager. All the twins pulled out except the M. & I. and when Mrs. Brockway discovered them pushing this particular car she was in around the yard she commended making inquiries and found she was on the wrong train and had missed her trip. When she walked into M. J. Reilly's store a few minutes later one could have bought W. E. Brockway for thirteen cents.

Fred Johns and J. P. Early came in from the south this afternoon. The former left for his home in Duluth on No. 12.

Banker O. H. Havill, of St. Cloud, and George R. Whitney, of the same place, returned from a trip north this afternoon. They went way beyond the line to look over the land. Mr. Havill states that there is some good land there, but they have had frost already and he saw some potato patches that were literally black, the frost having killed the vines. Frost in August sounds a little on the frigid order.

The following society note taken from the Mackinac Island news items in the Chicago Record will be of interest to many in Brainerd: "The first German of the season was given on Tuesday evening in the casino of the Grand Hotel, for which elaborate preparations were made. Elegant favors were sent from Chicago, Miss McCullough, of Brainerd, Minn., the belle of the hotel guests, and Herbert W. Coft, of St. Louis, were chosen leaders."

LIGHT ON MOUND BUILDERS

New Evidence of Their Knowledge of Farming and Domestic Arts.

W. C. Mills, curator of the museum of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical society, has made a discovery in Ross county, a few miles south of Chillicothe, which, he believes, will have an important bearing upon the final estimate of the attainments of the mound builders. He and a party of Ohio State university students have unearthed a prehistoric village on an elevation near the Scioto river whose inhabitants left signs that they knew something of agriculture and the domestic arts, says the Columbus (O.) correspondent of the New York Post.

Thus far forty-nine pits on the site have been excavated. In several of them, among heaps of parched corn and beans, evidence was found that the mound builders did not subsist entirely on fish and game, as has been thought hitherto by many archaeologists. The pits contain also rude weaving instruments, needles, bobbins and other household implements, some made of flint, others of bone. Broken pottery of various shapes was found, as also necklaces of shells, polished beaver teeth, carved bones of curious shapes, tobacco pipes, stone axes, awls and beads.

Not all the pits were used as store-houses or dwelling places. In one of them were found several skeletons. One narrow grave was occupied by two aged lovers clasped in each other's arms. Their extreme age is shown by the fact that, while the bones are remarkably well preserved, the woman's skull contains only one tooth, very much worn, while the man's has none at all.

Another pit bears traces of a feast to which Mr. Mills believes 1,500 people sat down. A hole in the center of the apartment four feet in diameter and ten feet deep tells the story of how the mound builders cooked their food. The clay soil, from the bottom to the top of the excavation, was burned to a deep red, while 450 stones heaped up in the center of the hole show signs of having once been fired to a red heat. Mussels from the river supplied the first course, and more than 20,000 shells show either that the diners were very numerous or that their appetites were exceptionally keen. Bits of deer bone, neatly chopped to five inch lengths, prove to Mr. Mills that the venison was well stewed before it was eaten. Some of the corn, beans and hickory nuts provided for the feast remain still in the cave, and, quite after the manner of modern dining room decorations, the place was adorned with the heads of bears, two of which are intact today.

PROGRESS IN CHINA.

Western Amusements in the Summer Palace at Peking.

Commenting on the recent dancing in the palace at Peking, the China Times says: "It was a matter of great surprise to many to learn that the grand old dowager had taken a real interest in western music and that princesses were dancing in a way calculated to upset the traditions of the Summer palace. It appears that reform in China can be best introduced through western pleasures and amusements. Tientsin has selected the humble medium of the merry-go-round with horse power music, while Peking in its pride of place called upon the services of Sir Robert Hart's famous band. Amusements are far more insidious than study, and it is the first aim of every teacher to interest first and instruct afterward.

"China is in the kindergarten stage of western learning. She must be amused to be taught. Don't hurry her; don't cram her. Let her learn the alphabet of reform in a pleasant manner. Instead of sending to China strong bands of foreign military, send strong military bands, with Dan Godfrey to lead them. The high appreciation of Sir Robert's band by the imperial party opens up a very alarming prospect to officialdom. For the empress to express such delight in western music is equivalent to ordering the officials in the capital to encourage such music. There can be no other prospect than every Peking official blowing his own trumpet with variations. A wave of music will pass over Peking, and every household will have an additional lyre. There is one great danger to be guarded against. They must not learn the extortionate powers of the waltz."

CARNEGIE AND FRICK.

Work Done by the Latter For the Steel Company.

VICTOR OF HOMESTEAD STRIKE.

James Howard Bridge, in Describing the Carnegie Steel Company's History, Draws a Strong Contrast Between the Owner of Skibo Castle and His Former Business Associate.

"No great business has yet been built upon the beatitudes, and it is not all cynicism that condenses a negative decalogue into a positive exhortation to be successful—somehow."

The above is from the introduction prepared for the "History of the Carnegie Steel Company" by its author, James Howard Bridge, who was born in England forty-five years ago, says the New York Herald.

He was for a time private secretary to Herbert Spencer and has written much on subjects connected with the study of political economy. Mr. Bridge assisted Andrew Carnegie materially in the preparation of his book "Triumph of Democracy."

The work, in most elaborate style, has recently been brought out for private circulation by the Aldine Book company. If it is a labor of love it is made certain that Mr. Andrew Carnegie is not the sole object of Mr. Bridge's affections.

Throughout some 370 octavo pages the theme runs along without variation—"be successful, somehow"—and in its application to Mr. Carnegie some very unpleasant material is presented. The action of the ironmaster toward his associates, particularly Mr. H. C. Frick, through whom, as the work says, "success was achieved, somehow," discloses some curious ideas of business morality.

Wall street has experienced a veritable sensation in the appearance of Mr. Bridge's book. Copies of it have appeared on the tables of banks and bankers' offices from quarters unknown. It is a book which must have cost thousands of dollars to prepare, full leviant morocco bound, made of beautiful Japanese paper, copiously illustrated with photogravure plates, all in the highest style of the printer's art. The first edition is said to have been limited to fifty copies at $100 each, and a second edition de luxe to 450 copies at a cost of about $25.

To find such rare and beautiful books in some cases donations has surprised even Wall street bankers. Surprise has given way to amazement as in turning its pages the readers have found all sorts of sensations staring them in the face. The innermost secrets of the Carnegie Steel company stand revealed to the light of day.

In the history of the Carnegie Steel company one may read Mr. Schwab's statement that steel rails could be produced at $12 a ton at a time they were costing the consumer $28. One may read of a division of profits running as high as 88 per cent to the members of the Carnegie association.

Mr. Bridge, the author of the book, was once private secretary to Mr. Carnegie. That he writes with a strong bias appears evident from the very introduction. In telling of his search for material he says, "I found Andrew Carnegie's own narrative the least trustworthy of all." He follows this up with a dedication: "To recall their forgotten services this history of a great business is dedicated—to the memory of the men who founded it, saved it from early disaster and won its first successes."

Mr. Andrew Carnegie's name is not included in this list.

Mr. Bridge's history of the Carnegie company dates back to 1858, when Andrew Klonan started a small forge at Girty's run, in Millvale, Duquesne borough, Allegheny. He traces the company step by step down to the time when it passed to the United States Steel corporation.

Great credit is given by the author to Mr. Frick for his work in the Carnegie company. As to the growth of the company's earnings in later years and until that preceding its absorption, the following is the result:

Net profits of the Carnegie associations, Carnegie Bros. & Co., limited (to 1892), Carnegie, Phipps & Co., limited (to 1892), and the Carnegie Steel company, limited (from July, 1892):

1889.....	$3,540,000	1895.....	$5,090,000
1890.....	5,350,000	1896.....	6,000,000
1891.....	4,200,000	1897.....	7,000,000
1892.....	4,000,000	1898.....	11,500,000
1893.....	3,000,000	1899.....	21,000,000
1894.....	4,000,000

Plus $4,500,000 reinvested.

The work done by Mr. Frick during the Homestead strike forms an important part of the work. The author draws a strong contrast between Mr. Frick, whom he describes as fighting the battle for the company beset by assassins, harassed by political influences and the like, while Mr. Carnegie is fishing for salmon or playing golf at Skibo castle. As a result of the strike, the credit of winning which is given to Mr. Frick, the work says:

It is believed by the Carnegie officials, and with some show of reason, that this magnificent record was to a great extent made possible by the company's victory at Homestead. From that time on the firm profited by the heavy investments it had made in labor saving machinery, and costs got so low that one year when the Carnegies made over $4,000,000 their chief competitor, the Illinois Steel company, had upward of $1,000,000 loss. The following year the Carnegies made over $3,000,000, while the Chicago company made only $500,000. By 1897 the cost of steel rails on cars was the Braddock mill was only $12 a gross ton.

Every detail of the bitter quarrel between Mr. Carnegie on the one hand and Mr. Henry Phipps and Mr. H. C. Frick on the other is spread out for public view backed by documentary evidence, copies of confidential documents, trade secrets, cost of production and the like.

FIGHT IN A BOX CAR.

Naked Men Hold Up Six Laborers and Two of the Latter Are Killed.

Glendive, Mont., Aug. 13.—Three masked men attempted to hold up in a Northern Pacific freight car early Wednesday six laborers en route to the wheat fields of the Dakotas. The laborers resisted the demands of the robbers and a general fight ensued, resulting in the killing of Thomas McGowan of Philadelphia, who was shot through the right lung, and an unknown man whose body was found in the car later in the day. W. R. Menching of Perham, Minn., was shot through the neck and perhaps will die. The robbers escaped uninjured, but two of them were arrested last night.

Engine of 52 Dashes Into String
of Log Cars Near Brain-
erd Lumber Co. Mill.

SOMEONE MADE BAD BLUNDER.

Engineer Farwell and Fireman
Wood Have Close Call
From Being Killed.

There was another quite a disastrous wreck on the Minnesota & International this morning about 7 o'clock just this side of the bridge across the Mississippi and near the Brainerd Lumber company mill, but fortunately no one was hurt although it was a close call for some of the trainmen. Considerable damage was done to one engine and several of the cars.

Engine No. 7 pulling train No. 52 was the one that was ditched and badly wrecked. Engineer Farwell was at the throttle and the fireman's name was Wood.

As is well known it is necessary to come down the grade across the bridge at a pretty rapid rate of speed in order to make the grade on this side. No. 52 is a logging train and was coming in with a full load. No. 59, another logger, going north was running empty. One half of No. 49 was set in on a sidetrack at the mill and the other half went over the bridge and onto another sidetrack. This was done in order to clear the track for the incoming freight, No. 52. A brakeman on 49 is said to have gone to Engineer Farwell and told him the track was clear. The latter therefore got up steam and opened the old engine up, and as he approached the switch which was supposed to have been turned he saw that he was headed into the sidetrack and he realized that he could not avert the accident which followed, although he did apply the air and thought he could stop the train, but it was too late.

Both Engineer Farwell and his fireman jumped and were not injured to any extent.

The engine dashed into the string of flats and it is said by those who saw it to have been a rather spectacular exhibition. Three or four of the logging cars were utterly demolished and the engine jumped the track and ploughed the pilot into the ground under several tons of dirt. The engine was badly wrecked, the front being entirely demolished. She was otherwise badly rimacked.

A crew of men was put to work at once and by the time the passenger came along this noon a track had been built around the wreck and she came in on time. The wrecker at Staples has been sent for and until it arrives the debris and plunder will not be entirely removed.

In all probability some one will get his time as it is considered nothing more nor less than a gross piece of negligence.

Former Brainerd Lady Marries.

The Little Falls Transcript contains the following item of interest to many of the DISPATCH readers:

"At the home of the bride in this city on Wednesday evening, Stephen C. Kemp, of Annandale, was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary E. Mahan, Rev. M. O. Stockland, of the M. E. church, officiating. The happy couple left on the morning train for the home of the groom.

The ceremony, which was at 8:30, was attended by only a few of the intimate friends of the bride, those from out of town being Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyce, of Park Rapids and F. B. McCord, of Minneapolis. This announcement will be a genuine surprise to the many friends of the bride in this city, as her contemplated marriage had not been generally announced. Mrs. Kemp had been a resident of this city for more than fourteen years, coming here from Brainerd, where she had previously lived for a number of years, and was one of the pioneers of Crow Wing county. She was highly respected both in Brainerd and Little Falls and has many friends in both cities who wish her happiness.

"The groom is little known here, but is one of the oldest settlers, having come to Minnesota in 1854. He served during the war with Minnesota troops. Mr. Kemp has a lovely home at Annandale, Wright county, where he conducts a summer resort. This is located on Clear Water lake and is one of the popular fishing resorts for people from the Twin cities.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens, of people you know, or depend upon statements made by utter strangers, residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mr. F. J. Hagadorn, of 123 Ninth St., north, says: "For thirty years I had more or less trouble with my kidneys. Some attacks laid me up while during others my back ached so severely that I could not sleep at night nor work during the day. On many occasions I could not stand and talk to a man for two or three minutes without suffering with twinges across the small of my back which radiated toward the shoulders. As time passed by the complaint became more pronounced and difficulty with the kidney secretions set in. As might be expected I tried everything when the attacks occurred to check them, but if I had met with any marked degree of success I never would have resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills.

"When suffering severely I went to a drug store and got a box, I expected the result would be similar to those obtained by using other preparations. In twenty-four hours I changed my mind. I noticed they were acting totally different to anything hitherto tried, and encouraged I kept on with the treatment until I finished two boxes. Now I may have recurrences but at the present moment, and it is sometime since I stopped the treatment, I have not a symptom of my old complaint. To any one interested I will be only too pleased to give a minute detail and substantiate the above statement in a personal interview."

SETTLERS NEED NOT WORRY SO MUCH

State Deeds to Northern Pacific
68,000 Acres of Land in
This Vicinity.

SETTLERS WILL NOW GET DEEDS

Contracts for Their Land and all
The Titles Will be Good
and Unquestioned.

There has been a whole lot of hubbub over what now seems to have been a little misunderstanding in the interpretation of certain receipts given by the Northern Pacific company to large numbers of people who settled on lands included within the Northern Pacific land grant.

The fact that the state of Minnesota yesterday conveyed 62,000 acres of land in this, Morrison and Todd counties to the Northern Pacific Railway company has alleviated the rather anxious feelings of those who have occupied the land for so many years.

This was a grant under the old territorial law, for the line from Watab to Brainerd, built in 1877 by the St. Paul and Pacific, later the Northern Pacific. The land was granted by the government but the patent was not issued until June 20 of this year. Under the law the land was conveyed through the state.

It may be interesting to know just how these Northern Pacific lands have been handled in the past, what the nature of the contract between the settlers and the Northern Pacific is and what are the provisions of the agreement entered into between the two interested parties.

For years there has been an effort on the part of those interested to have these lands patented but up to a short time ago all efforts in this direction proved futile, due it is said to the influence of parties who were closer to the Great Northern than the Northern Pacific at a time when these two roads were contending forces and were not on the friendly footing that they are now. The effort to secure the patents on this land were made for the benefit of the settlers, but in all these years this could not be done.

In the meantime the people were anxious to settle on the land and finally through the company's agent in this city, J. M. Elder, a large number of people were located on these lands. The Northern Pacific company sold the land to them at a stated price, but instead of making a contract with them, which would be an impossibility in view of the fact that the tracts had never been converted by the state to the company, the company issued a receipt to the settler, which gave him possession of the land, provided for certain improvements to be made and stipulated that a contract or deed would be given them as soon as the land was patented.

A short time ago some 6,000 acres of the land was conveyed to the state and the settlers are receiving their contracts or deeds. Of this last 68,000 acres of land there is but 12,000 acres in Crow Wing county.

The rather premature exploit made of the matter has caused all kinds of trouble for Mr. Elder in this city, but he gives it out that people who have Northern Pacific contracts should remember that their title to the land is as good as could be asked for and is unquestioned. As to those who have not lived up to the agreement in the matter of making improvements this will be settled later.

But the sum and substance of the whole affair is that the settlers will get clear title to their land and Mr. Elder states that everything will come out all right.

Congressman Buckman and Senator Ferris interested themselves in the matter a short time ago and it is thought that it was through their influence that the patents were issued yesterday on the 68,000 acres.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

HOYT'S "A TEXAS STEER".

This engagement of Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" which will appear at the Brainerd opera house tonight has every indication of brilliant success. One of the unoriginal things Mr. Hoyt said is "that nothing succeeds like success," but it is so aptly applied to "A Texas Steer" that the quotation can easily be forgiven. This is quite certain—No comedy of its class has better or more worthy claims to its great popularity than "A Texas Steer." These claims, like its success, are well founded. This, too, can be said while comparing "A Texas Steer" with Hoyt's other successes. Some special reasons for this standing of the play are its wholesome wit, its always well tempered satire, its brisk, natural and continual movement and the unceasing laughter provocation of its lines, characters and situations. No one is ashamed to confess to having laughed for two hours at a time after seeing "A Texas Steer" for he can show good cause for having done so.

AN UP-TO-DATE SHOW.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" the first of the many rural plays now being presented in the different cities, will be seen at the Brainerd theatre next Monday, Aug. 17. This production is said to be different from all others as it contains much comedy as well as pathos, and the realistic saw mill scene is said to be the most exciting and intense effects. The scenes of the play are laid in Vermont and New York which gives ample opportunity for portraying the simple rustic characters in the country as well as the many incidents that befall the simple country folk that visit the metropolis.

A Big Colonization Scheme.

Announcement was recently made in London of a big colonization scheme for the development of South Africa. One of the chief promoters is General Botha. The plan embraces the formation of a land bank with a capital of $10,000,000, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. It is said that the company will start with the control of 800,000 acres of land. The British government is said not to look too kindly on the scheme, regarding it as a possible attempt on the part of the shrewd Boers to gain political advantage for the Dutch. This suspicion has been increased by the recent revival of the Bond influence in Cape Town.

Many Tunnels of New Railway Line.

In constructing twenty-six miles of track on the Denver, North-western and Pacific railway, where it crosses the Rocky mountains, thirty-six tunnels will be bored. In tunneling a section of only two and one-half miles it is estimated that 600,000 pounds of powder will be used.

Another Boom Launched.

[Secretary Schutz of the Milwaukee health department is framing an ordinance creating a legal standard for the food used in boarding houses and hotels.] At last the boarding house brigade has found a candidate. The man of destiny is here; we see the hand of fate. No more the custard cup shall be a puzzle to our spoons; no more the furnished boards shall be forced to feed on prunes, and every boarder in the land arises and salutes. And cheers the name and sounds the fame of Secretary Schutz.

Here is a man at last who knows his country's pressing need, who knows the legions now compelled on doubtful stuff to feed. Who knows the way the butter stands defiant on the plate. And how the coffee is too weak its steam to radiate; He knows the secondhand pies and plaster aris fruits. Each boarding place will boom the race of Secretary Schutz.

Hurrah, for now, at last, the man who boards will get a steak. That is not a lamentable stuff, too stiff to bend or break. And all the secret, hidden things shall swiftly go to smash; We'll know exactly what is put into the dish of hash. Each boarder says this is the man who all requirements suits. And makes a note that he will vote for Secretary Schutz.

The leather covered griddlecake must fly to other scenes. For Secretary Schutz is apt to say just what he means. So up from all the boarding houses now a cheer is wildly flung. A cheer that means that here's the man to run the president. Star boarders and delinquents are prepared to bet their boots. That every voice will cheer the choice of Secretary Schutz.

"Farmer" McCabe Wants to See His Dying Brother and Write to President Roosevelt.

A brother's dangerous illness is the basis of an unusual request forwarded to President Roosevelt by James McCabe, now serving fifteen months in the Hennepin jail for selling liquor to Indians near Walker, says the Journal. The prisoner asked the local authorities for a leave of absence to visit his dying brother. His request was refused and a telegram was sent to the president at Oyster Bay about a week ago. No answer has been received, and it seems probable that the convicted man will have to remain in jail.

A DISASTROUS WRECK ON M. & I

Engine of 52 Dashes Into String
of Log Cars Near Brain-
erd Lumber Co. Mill.

SOMEONE MADE BAD BLUNDER.

Engineer Farwell and Fireman
Wood Have Close Call
From Being Killed.

There was another quite a disastrous wreck on the Minnesota & International this morning about 7 o'clock just this side of the bridge across the Mississippi and near the Brainerd Lumber company mill, but fortunately no one was hurt although it was a close call for some of the trainmen. Considerable damage was done to one engine and several of the cars.

Engine No. 7 pulling train No. 52 was the one that was ditched and badly wrecked. Engineer Farwell was at the throttle and the fireman's name was Wood.

As is well known it is necessary to come down the grade across the bridge at a pretty rapid rate of speed in order to make the grade on this side. No. 52 is a logging train and was coming in with a full load. No. 59, another logger, going north was running empty. One half of No. 49 was set in on a sidetrack at the mill and the other half went over the bridge and onto another sidetrack. This was done in order to clear the track for the incoming freight, No. 52. A brakeman on 49 is said to have gone to Engineer Farwell and told him the track was clear. The latter therefore got up steam and opened the old engine up, and as he approached the switch which was supposed to have been turned he saw that he was headed into the sidetrack and he realized that he could not avert the accident which followed, although he did apply the air and thought he could stop the train, but it was too late.

Both Engineer Farwell and his fireman jumped and were not injured to any extent. The engine dashed into the string of flats and it is said by those who saw it to have been a rather spectacular exhibition. Three or four of the logging cars were utterly demolished and the engine jumped the track and ploughed the pilot into the ground under several tons of dirt. The engine was badly wrecked, the front being entirely demolished. She was otherwise badly rimacked.

A crew of men was put to work at once and by the time the passenger came along this noon a track had been built around the wreck and she came in on time. The wrecker at Staples has been sent for and until it arrives the debris and plunder will not be entirely removed.

In all probability some one will get his time as it is considered nothing more nor less than a gross piece of negligence. Right or wrong repairs make or unmake a watch. We guarantee all repairs right. A. P. Raymond, Front St. jeweler. 59tf

Former Brainerd Lady Marries.

The Little Falls Transcript contains the following item of interest to many of the DISPATCH readers:

"At the home of the bride in this city on Wednesday evening, Stephen C. Kemp, of Annandale, was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary E. Mahan, Rev. M. O. Stockland, of the M. E. church, officiating. The happy couple left on the morning train for the home of the groom.

The ceremony, which was at 8:30, was attended by only a few of the intimate friends of the bride, those from out of town being Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyce, of Park Rapids and F. B. McCord, of Minneapolis. This announcement will be a genuine surprise to the many friends of the bride in this city, as her contemplated marriage had not been generally announced. Mrs. Kemp had been a resident of this city for more than fourteen years, coming here from Brainerd, where she had previously lived for a number of years, and was one of the pioneers of Crow Wing county. She was highly respected both in Brainerd and Little Falls and has many friends in both cities who will wish her happiness.

"The groom is little known here, but is one of the oldest settlers, having come to Minnesota in 1854. He served during the war with Minnesota troops. Mr. Kemp has a lovely home at Annandale, Wright county, where he conducts a summer resort. This is located on Clear Water lake and is one of the popular fishing resorts for people from the Twin cities.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should be Answered
Easily by Brainerd People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens, of people you know, or depend upon statements made by utter strangers, residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mr. F. J. Hagadorn, of 123 Ninth St., north, says: "For thirty years I had more or less trouble with my kidneys. Some attacks laid me up while during others my back ached so severely that I could not sleep at night nor work during the day. On many occasions I could not stand and talk to a man for two or three minutes without suffering with twinges across the small of my back which radiated toward the shoulders. As time passed by the complaint became more pronounced and difficulty with the kidney secretions set in. As might be expected I tried everything when the attacks occurred to check them, but if I had met with any marked degree of success I never would have resorted to Doan's Kidney Pills.

"When suffering severely I went to a drug store and got a box. I expected the result would be similar to those obtained by using other preparations. In twenty-four hours I changed my mind. I noticed they were acting totally different to anything hitherto tried, and encouraged I kept on with the treatment until I finished two boxes. Now I may have recurrences but at the present moment, and it is sometime since I stopped the treatment, I have not a symptom of my old complaint. To anyone interested I will be only too pleased to give a minute detail and substantiate the above statement in a personal interview."

SETTLERS NEED NOT WORRY SO MUCH

State Deeds to Northern Pacific
68,000 Acres of Land in
This Vicinity.

SETTLERS WILL NOW GET DEEDS

Contracts for Their Land and all
The Titles Will be Good
and Unquestioned.

There has been a whole lot of hubbub over what now seems to have been a little misunderstanding in the interpretation of certain receipts given by the Northern Pacific company to large numbers of people who settled on lands included within the Northern Pacific land grant.

The fact that the state of Minnesota yesterday conveyed 62,000 acres of land in this, Morrison and Todd counties to the Northern Pacific Railway company has alleviated the rather anxious feelings of those who have occupied the land for so many years.

This was a grant under the old territorial law, for the line from Watab to Brainerd, built in 1877 by the St. Paul and Pacific, later the Northern Pacific. The land was granted by the government but the patent was not issued until June 20 of this year. Under the law the land was conveyed through the state.

It may be interesting to know just how these Northern Pacific lands have been handled in the past, what the nature of the contract between the settlers and the Northern Pacific is and what are the provisions of the agreement entered into between the two interested parties.

For years there has been an effort on the part of those interested to have these lands patented but up to a short time ago all efforts in this direction proved futile, due to the influence of parties who were closer to the Great Northern than the Northern Pacific at a time when these two roads were contending forces and were not on the friendly footing that they are now. The effort to secure the patents on this land were made for the benefit of the settlers, but in all these years this could not be done.

In the meantime the people were anxious to settle on the land and finally through the company's agent in this city, J. M. Elder, a large number of people were located on these lands. The Northern Pacific company sold the land to them at a stated price, but instead of making a contract with them, which would be an impossibility in view of the fact that the tracts had never been converted by the state to the company, the company issued a receipt to the settler, which gave him possession of the land, provided for certain improvements to be made and stipulated that a contract or deed would be given them as soon as the land was patented.

A short time ago some 60,000 acres of the land was conveyed to the state and the settlers are receiving their contracts or deeds. Of this last 68,000 acres of land there is but 12,000 acres in Crow Wing county.

The rather premature exploit made of the matter has caused all kinds of trouble for Mr. Elder in this city, but he gives it out that people who have Northern Pacific contracts should remember that their title to the land is as good as could be asked for and is unquestioned. As to those who have not lived up to the agreement in the matter of making improvements this will be settled later.

But the sum and substance of the whole affair is that the settlers will get clear title to their land and Mr. Elder states that everything will come out all right.

Congressman Buckman and Senator Ferris interested themselves in the matter a short time ago and it is thought that it was through their influence that the patents were issued yesterday on the 68,000 acres.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

HOYT'S "A TEXAS STEER".

This engagement of Hoyt's "A Texas Steer" which will appear at the Brainerd opera house tonight has every indication of brilliant success. One of the unoriginal things Mr. Hoyt said is "that nothing succeeds like success," but it is so aptly applied to "A Texas Steer" that the quotation can easily be forgiven. This is quite certain—No comedy of its class has better or more worthy claims to its great popularity than "A Texas Steer." These claims, like its success, are well founded. This, too, can be said while comparing "A Texas Steer" with Hoyt's other successes. Some special reasons for this standing of the play are its wholesome wit, its always well tempered satire, its brisk, natural and continual movement and the unceasing laughter provocation of its lines, characters and situations. No one is ashamed to confess to having laughed for two hours at a time after seeing "A Texas Steer" for he can show good cause for having done so.

AN UP-TO-DATE SHOW.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" the first of the many rural plays now being presented in the different cities, will be seen at the Brainerd theatre next Monday, Aug. 17. This production is said to be different from all others as it contains much comedy as well as pathos, and the realistic saw mill scene is said to be the most exciting and intense effects. The scenes of the play are laid in Vermont and New York which gives ample opportunity for portraying the simple rustic characters in the country as well as the many incidents that befall the simple country folk that visit the metropolis.

THE POPE'S SIMPLE LIFE

Stories of Pius X. Showing His
Love of Plain Living.

HIS ELECTION UNEXPECTED BY HIM

When Asked How He Would Act as
Pope He Replied, "I Shall Remain
The Same Sarto"—Often Found Him-
self Without Money—How He Once
Disobeyed Leo XIII.—His Love For Music.

Many stories illustrative of the character of Pope Pius X. have been current in Rome since the conclave of cardinals chose the patriarch of Venice as
successor to Leo XIII., says the New York Evening Journal. They show
all his independence and his modesty, the simplicity of his tastes and
his love for the beautiful, his love for
the common people, from whom he
sprang and to whom he has given so
much that often during his life he has
had to struggle against poverty.

Giuseppe Sarto always has been a
democrat and a commoner. Sarto
might have been raised to the papal
nobility had he so desired, but he preferred to remain as he was.

Pius X. is a friend of King Victor
Emmanuel, as he was of the late King
Humbert. His utter fearlessness and
independence were well illustrated during the reign of Humbert. When Humbert last visited Venice he gave a gala concert function. Pope Leo intimated to Cardinal Sarto that he would be wise
to remain away.

Sarto disobeyed the pope's tacit instructions and paid his respects in person to the king. The cardinal made Humbert aware also that his visit was
in opposition to the wishes of Leo. This
so pleased Humbert that he gave orders that the cardinal should there-
after be admitted to his presence in advance of all others. The cardinal paid
a second visit later, while Humbert
was holding an audience. Sarto would not permit the audience to be interrupted, however, but waited until it
was over.

Since chosen pope he has given numerous instances of his simplicity and lack of ostentation. The other day he flatly refused to be carried in the sedia
gestatoria on the way to and from the Sistine chapel, and it was carried behind him. As he was walking he said humbly to Mgr. Bisleti:

"I shall never voluntarily get into that box."

After he reached Rome Mgr. Stratimovich, a Venetian prelate, who accompanied Cardinal Sarto to the capital,
took leave of him at the Vatican. Before going, as they parted, Strati-
movich said:

"May you be chosen pope."

"No, no," replied Cardinal Sarto,
laughing. "No fear for me. Give me
the number of your telephone, though,
and I will let you know quickly who
receives that honor."

The prelate gave the number. True
to his promise, the first thing the cardinal did after his election was to call
up the prelate to give him the promised
information. He found, however, that the Venetian had already learned the
news and was hurrying even then to the Vatican.

When in the past the people of Venice asked Cardinal Sarto what he
would do if made pope, as they frequently did, he would reply laugh-
ingly:

"I shall have white robes instead of
red. That will be the only change. I shall remain the same Sarto as ever."

His love for Venice is like the love of a child for its mother. He recently received the Princess Beatrice, daughter
of Don Carlos, of Venice. He said to
the princess:

"We are from the same town. Your father is my friend, and I have not forgotten his amiability in coming to see
me off at the station when I left for
the conclave. I little imagined then
that I should never see my beloved canals again. I hope your royal father
will soon visit our court."

Pius X. likes not only to walk in the country and to look at the sea, but he is a mountain climber as well. A few days before he left Venice he climbed
to the top of Mount Grappa, an altitude
of 5,500 feet. Outdoor life is a constant delight to him.

His greatest pleasure is in music.
Lorenzo Perosi, director of the pontif-
ical choir, is a great friend of his, having formerly been maestro at St. Mark's
in Venice. Perosi is in fact chiefly indebted to Pius X. for his
musical career.

One story which may account for the
liberality of the new pope is that he was
originally inclined to be a freethinker.
He became a protegee of Cardinal
Parocchi, however, and his views
changed.

In money matters the new pontiff has always been extremely modest. As patriarch of Venice his income was
about $2,400 a year. The greatest part of this he gave away, and he was often
pressed for funds for his personal necessities. It is related of him that not long ago he was called suddenly to Rome, but had not a cent of ready
money. He was compelled to borrow $400, and he was in a perfect fever
until the debt was paid.

His Latest Move.

VICTIMS OF X RAYS.

Experiences of Two Surgeons of the London Hospital.

The New York Herald publishes the following from its London correspondent:

Mr. Edison is not the only person to suffer from the mysterious power of the Roentgen rays. Two physicians in the radiograph department of the London hospital have fallen victims to its baneful influence, with the result that they had to take an enforced
holiday and that the use of the rays
for direct examination of injuries has been abandoned.

The rays are now employed to take the photographs from which the surgeon works, thus avoiding the necessity of manipulating a limb while the rays are actually playing on it. Gloves with lead foil sewed into the back were tried, but they were found to impede the hands to such an extent that they were discarded.

Mr. Wilson, one of the two men who used to make the direct examinations
with the rays at the hospital, explained
that he had not done this class of work for the last eighteen months, yet his hands showed but little signs of improving. Hot fomentations were still necessary, and it is practically certain that his finger nails will never grow properly again. The first symptom of X ray poisoning is a troublesome inflammation of the hands, accompanied by swellings resembling chilblains, depression of spirits and insomnia.

The nails, too, are affected, a ridge
forming down the center, in which pus
is generated. After the matter has been removed the nail seems partially
to perish, the injury to the matrix im-
pairing the future growth. The trouble
is chiefly noticeable in the finger
tips, decreasing toward the wrist, but
slight evidences are generally to be found on most parts of the body.

The eyes, too, are apt to suffer from
the ray flicker. Regarded pathologi-
cally, the results of the X rays seem to
be cumulative, being up to a certain
point highly beneficial and beyond that
the reverse.

JUSTIN M'CARTHY HONORED

Placed on English Civil List With
Yearly Pension of $1,250.

Justin McCarthy, author of "A History
of Our Own Times," "The Reign of Queen Anne" (Harpers) and other histories well known in the United States,
has been placed on the English civil
list to receive an annual pension of £250 ($1,250), says Harper's. As Mr.
McCarthy is a popular historical author whose works have sold largely in England and America, one of the prominent English periodicals wonders why
a pension was bestowed upon him. The fact is that for the past five years
Mr. McCarthy has been almost blind
and works under great difficulty, which
would be even greater were it not for
the devotion of his daughter, with whom he lives.

Furthermore, he has always been
open handed and generous to a fault
and in his old age has been somewhat
straitened on that account. He is now
in his seventy-third year and, in addition to his histories, has written a number of novels. At the age of eighteen
he began his journalistic career, going
later into politics, finally entering parliament in 1879. Seven years ago he retired from public life and has since
devoted himself entirely to literature.

NEW TYPE OF FOSSILS.

Discovery of Human Skeleton by Workmen Near Mentone, France.

The grottoes of Bousse-Rousse, near Mentone, in France, are now being explored for prehistoric remains under
the direction of the Prince of Monaco,
writes the Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. M. de Villeneuve
has been carrying on the excavations,
which have yielded some interesting
finds, especially of fossil human remains.

The chief discovery so far has been a human fossil of a new type. At twenty-one feet was found a complete skeleton and two feet lower the last burial place, containing two bodies. The subject found at twenty-one feet is a man
of great height, 6 feet 4 inches. The skull has been reconstructed. The facial part is very low and well developed
in length. This individual has the characteristics of the race known as Cro-Magnon. The two skeletons found at twenty-three feet present great interest,
as they are of the negroid type.

Hawaii to Have the Finest Aquarium

Plans have now been perfected in Honolulu, Hawaii, and the means provided for the erection and maintenance
of a magnificent aquarium for ocean
fish and ocean life on the beach at Waikiki, opposite the entrance to Ka-
pioalani park and as a part of the park
enterprise, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The building for the aquarium is to be in the form of a cross,
the main axis of the building being 105 feet and of the other eighty-three feet. It will be arranged and maintained in accordance with the
most approved modern knowledge and
appliances and is designed to be the
most complete institution of the kind
in America.

The New American.

The Latins and the Slavs are going
to play an important part in making
the American republic of the future
what it is destined to be, says the Cleveland Leader. This means a warmer temperament, more love of
color and gaiety, more passion and
more inclination toward art and music.
The future America may be all the
more interesting, varied, many sided
and imposing for the vast river of new
blood and novel customs and ideas
flowing into the country, but the change must not be too rapid. It is time to think of floodgates to check the tide.

CAPTURES CANADA'S CUP.

American Boat Defeats the Canadian
in the Deciding Race.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 14.—The Iron-
quoit, the American challenger for the Canada's cup, Thursday won the deciding race of the series, thus sending
the trophy across the water. It will
now rest in the Rochester Yacht club
until some Canadian boat is able to bring it back.

The last race was a triangular one,
seven miles to a leg, the first leg to
windward and the other two reaches,
mostly close hauled owing to the shifting of the wind.

The Ironquoit won by more than a minute over the Strathcona.

THE LAKE ERIE INCIDENT.

Firing Upon American Vessel by Canadian Cutter Without Precedent.

Washington, Aug. 14.—No dispatches
have been received during the day by
the state department concerning the
firing upon the fishing vessel by a
Canadian revenue cutter in Lake Erie.
Several officers of the department, up-
on reading the press dispatches of the
occurrence, searched for precedents
and in such cases none can be found.
The fact that no telegraphic advices
have been received leads to the belief
in the department that the case is not
of such serious consequence as to
make it an international complication.

THE POPE'S SIMPLE LIFE

Stories of Pius X. Showing His
Love of Plain Living.

HIS ELECTION UNEXPECTED BY HIM

When Asked How He Would Act as
Pope He Replied, "I Shall Remain
the Same Sarto"—Often Found Him-
self Without Money—How He Once
Disobeyed Leo XIII.—His Love For
Music.

Many stories illustrative of the character of Pope Pius X. have been current in Rome since the conclave of cardinals chose the patriarch of Venice as
successor to Leo XIII., says the New York Evening Journal. They show
how his independence and his modesty, the simplicity of his tastes and
his love for the beautiful, his love for
the common people, from whom he
sprang and to whom he has given so
much that often during his life he has
had to struggle against poverty.

Giuseppe Sarto always has been a
democrat and a commoner. Sarto
might have been raised to the papal
nobility had he so desired, but he preferred to remain as he was.

Pius X. is a friend of King Victor
Emmanuel, as he was of the late King
Humbert. His utter fearlessness and
independence were well illustrated during the reign of Humbert. When Hum-
bert last visited Venice he gave a gala
court function. Pope Leo intimated to Cardinal Sarto that he would be wise
to remain away.

Sarto disobeyed the pope's tacit instructions and paid his respects in person to the king. The cardinal made
Humbert aware also that his visit was
in opposition to the wishes of Leo. This
so pleased Humbert that he gave orders that the cardinal should there-
after be admitted to his presence in advance of all others. The cardinal paid
a second visit later, while Humbert
was holding an audience. Sarto would
not permit the audience to be interrupted, however, but waited until it
was over.

Since chosen pope he has given numerous instances of his simplicity and
lack of ostentation. The other day he
flatly refused to be carried in the sedia
gestatoria on the way to and from the Sistine chapel, and it was carried behind him. As he was walking he said humorously to Mgr. Bisleti:

"I shall never voluntarily get into that box."

After he reached Rome Mgr. Strati-
morovich, a Venetian prelate, who accompanied Cardinal Sarto to the capital,
took leave of him at the Vatican. Before going, as they parted, Strati-
morovich said:

"May you be chosen pope."

"No, no," replied Cardinal Sarto,
laughing. "No fear for me. Give me
the number of your telephone, though,
and I will let you know quickly who
receives that honor."

The prelate gave the number. True
to his promise, the first thing the car-
dinal did after his election was to call
up the prelate to give him the promised
information. He found, however, that
the Venetian had already learned the
news and was hurrying even then to the Vatican.

When in the past the people of Venice asked Cardinal Sarto what he
would do if made pope, as they frequently did, he would reply laugh-
ingly:

"I shall have white robes instead of red ones. That will be the only change.
I shall remain the same Sarto as ever."

His love for Venice is like the love of a child for its mother. He recently received the Princess Beatrice, daughter
of Don Carlos, of Venice. He said to
the princess:

"We are from the same town. Your
father is my friend, and I have not for-
gotten his amiability in coming to see
me off at the station when I left for
the conclave. I little imagined then
that I should never see my beloved cousin again. I hope your royal father
will soon visit our court."

Pius X. likes not only to walk in the
country and to look at the sea, but he
is a mountain climber as well. A few
days before he left Venice he climbed
to the top of Mount Grappa, an altitude
of 5,500 feet. Outdoor life is a constant
delight to him.

His greatest pleasure is in music.
Lorenzo Perosi, director of the pontif-
ical choir, is a great friend of his, having formerly been maestro at St. Mark's
in Venice. Perosi is in fact
chiefly indebted to Pius X. for his
musical career.

One story which may account for the
liberality of the new pope is that he was
originally inclined to be a freethinker.
He became a protegee of Cardinal
Parocchi, however, and his views
changed.

In money matters the new pontiff has always been extremely modest. As
patriarch of Venice his income was
about $2,400 a year. The greatest part
of this he gave away, and he was often
pressed for funds for his personal necessities. It is related of him that not long ago he was called suddenly to Rome, but had not a cent of ready
money. He was compelled to borrow
$400, and he was in a perfect fever
until the debt was paid.

by swellings resembling chilblains, depression of spirits and insomnia.

The nails, too, are affected, a ridge
forming down the center, in which pus
is generated. After the matter has
been removed the nail seems partially
to perish, the injury to the matrix im-
pairing the future growth. The trouble
is chiefly noticeable in the finger
tips, decreasing toward the wrist, but
slight evidences are generally to be
found on most parts of the body.

The eyes, too, are apt to suffer from
the ray flicker. Regarded pathologi-
cally, the results of the X rays seem to
be cumulative, being up to a certain
point highly beneficial and beyond that
the reverse.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY HONORED

Placed on English Civil List With
Yearly Pension of $1,250.

Justin McCarthy, author of "A History
of Our Own Times," "The Reign of Queen Anne" (Harpers) and other histories well known in the United States,
has been placed on the English civil
list to receive an annual pension of
£250 ($1,250), says Harper's. As Mr.
McCarthy is a popular historical author whose works have sold largely in England and America, one of the prominent English periodicals wonders why
a pension was bestowed upon him. The
fact is that for the past five years
Mr. McCarthy has been almost blind
and works under great difficulty, which
would be even greater were it not for
the devotion of his daughter, with
whom he lives.

Furthermore, he has always been
open handed and generous to a fault
and in his old age has been somewhat
straitened on that account. He is now
in his seventy-third year and, in addition to his histories, has written a number of novels. At the age of eighteen
he began his journalistic career, going
later into politics, finally entering parliament in 1879. Seven years ago he
retired from public life and has since
devoted himself entirely to literature.

NEW TYPE OF FOSSILS.

Discovery of Human Skeleton by Workmen Near Mentone, France.

The grottoes of Bousse-Rousse, near
Mentone, in France, are now being explored for prehistoric remains under
the direction of the Prince of Monaco,
writes the Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia Press. M. de Villeneuve
has been carrying on the excavations,
which have yielded some interesting
finds, especially of fossil human remains.

The chief discovery so far has been a human fossil of a new type. At twenty-one feet was found a complete skeleton and two feet lower the last burial
place, containing two bodies. The subject found at twenty-one feet is a man
of great height, 6 feet 4 inches. The skull has been reconstructed. The fa-
cial part is very low and well developed
in length. This individual has the characteristics of the race known as Cro-Magnon. The two skeletons found at twenty-three feet present great interest, as they are of the negroid type.

Hawaii to Have the Finest Aquarium

Plans have now been perfected in Honolulu, Hawaii, and the means provided for the erection and maintenance
of a magnificent aquarium for ocean
fish and ocean life on the beach at Waikiki, opposite the entrance to Ka-
piolani park and as a part of the park
enterprise, says the San Francisco Chronicle. The building for the aquarium is to be in the form of a cross,
the main axis of the building being 105 feet and of the other eighty-
three feet. It will be arranged and
maintained in accordance with the
most approved modern knowledge and
appliances and is designed to be the
most complete institution of the kind
in America.

The New America.

The Latins and the Slavs are going
to play an important part in making
the American republic of the future
what it is destined to be, says the Cleveland Leader. This means a
warmer temperament, more love of
color and gaiety, more passion and
more inclination toward art and music.
The future America may be all the
more interesting, varied, many sided
and imposing for the vast river of new
blood and novel customs and ideas
flowing into the country, but the
change must not be too rapid. It is time to think of floodgates to check the
tide.

CAPTURES CANADA'S CUP.

American Boat Defeats the Canadian
in the Deciding Race.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 14.—The Iron-
quoit, the American challenger for the Canada's cup, Thursday won the de-
ciding race of the series, thus sending
the trophy across the water. It will
now rest in the Rochester Yacht club
until some Canadian boat is able to
bring it back.

The last race was a triangular one,
seven miles to a leg, the first leg to
windward and the other two reaches,
mostly close hauled owing to the shift-
ing of the wind.

The Ironquoit won by more than a minute over the Strathcona.

THE LAKE ERIE INCIDENT.

Firing Upon American Vessel by Ca-
nadian Cutter Without Precedent.

Washington, Aug. 14.—No dispatches
have been received during the day by
the state department concerning the
firing upon the fishing vessel by a
Canadian revenue cutter in Lake Erie.
Several officers of the department, up-
on reading the press dispatches of the
occurrence, searched for precedents
and in such cases none can be found.
The fact that no telegraphic advices
have been received leads to the belief
in the department that the case is not
of such serious consequence as to
make it an international complication.
